2. OBJECTIVES:

- Review of techniques and works related to federated data services and infrastructures for controlled, secure, and private data sharing;
- Analysis of technologies for implementing a data space in an industrial context within ocean technologies;
- Design, development, and demonstration of a prototype in a laboratory environment, as well as integration into real use cases;
- Writing project documentation and scientific publications.

3. BRIEF PRESENTATION OF THE WORK PROGRAMME AND TRAINING:

This work will start with a study on controlled data sharing methods in federated environments. Existing solutions will be tested for creating data spaces that align with the technical and governance definitions of IDSA, the Gaia-X standards, relevant European directives, and best practices defined by reference projects. The issues to address involve the architectural and technical definition of essential components for creating a decentralized data space that allows data sharing in an interoperable way, both at the model level and at the data transfer protocol level.

Empirical studies will be used to explore and demonstrate the benefits of the proposed approach. A prototype will be developed in a lab environment and integrated into real use cases.
